

In response to concerns voiced by University Heights residents, the UHPD now has a speed trailer that will be making appearances in various parts of town.

The speed trailer displays drivers' speeds, increasing awareness of our speed limits and reducing speeding in our neighborhoods. It provides immediate feedback, doesn't require the presence of a police officer, is relatively low cost, and can be moved to various locations in town.

All of our non-arterial streets have 20mph (or lower) speed limits.

Why do we care so much about speeding in our community? Take a look:
